About the conference:

In the last couple of years, education fraternity have undergone transformative changes majorly driven by technological advancement. This have had major implications for legislators, policymakers, educationist and student community. For instance, sources of information have extended from the physical/ print format to digital and social media, giving rise to the hitherto unknown problems of fake information, online abuse, sponsored posts, harassment, etc. that have the public and private scuttling for measures to contain. It is believed that many such challenges will arise in the future. Even minor changes and developments can force one to ponder if our current education, teaching-learning, legal and regulatory systems are equipped to deal with such shifts. With the rise of predictive algorithms and artificial intelligence, we are witness to a posthuman society where the lines between the physical and the digital sphere are blurry. Needless to say, a continuous stream of innovations will demand regular updates and even pose arduous challenges for education, industry, and legal professionals.
